Johnston & Vance are rahable dealers, whose rep resentations as to quality of goods can always | building, and who has long been an invalid, be relied on. Any one desiring to purchase would do well to call there. ATTENTION is asked to the new advertisement of the Presbyterian school. As a reult of spending the long vacation in studying the schools of other cities, where th deas of Pestalczzi and Froebel have taken deep root, the principal gives us a new departure in primary training. Its leading bjects, as set forth in the prospectus, are the cultivation of the perceptive faculties, observation rather than memory alone, habits of correct expression, of original thought, exercises in composition, physical training music and drawing; in short, that symmetrica development which has always been a leading principle in this school. As a permanent feature in Memphis educational circles, we recommend this school in all departments. Promises made by its managers are never vain. In all its appointments the school is attractive. Five teachers of reputation and experience are employed in the literary department. Latin is taught daily without extra charge. Prof. Witzman visits the school to teach modern languages. Mr Merrit has an interesting class in painting Every advantage is offered in music. The large enrollment shows the school to be pop-

CONFLAGRATION.

The Block of Buildings on the Southeast Corner of Fourth and Poplar Streets, with Contents, Entirely Destroyed.

A. & J. Heiliger's Bakery, with Stock and Fixtures, a Total Loss-Narrow Escape of the Tenants-Loss, Insurance, Etc.

About three o'clock this morning a fire broke out in Heiliger's bakery (formerly Berton's confectionary), corner of Fourth and Poplar streets, the flames being first discorded in the bake-room in the cellar, and in a few moments the entire building was in flames, the occupants barely escaping with their lives. The adjoining tenement buildings (all brick) on Poplar and Fourth streets, soon caught fire, and, for a time, baffled the efforts of the firemen. So quick was the entire corner, including the adjoining of the city to have been $4,669,854 76. This building, in flames, that the women and children had to be driven out barefooted, in their night clothes, on the snow-covered streets. The cries, groaning and weeping of the children was heartrending. The west

Correspondence Between Leading Citizens and the Mayor with Reference to the City's Assets and Liabilities-The Mayor's Showing on the Compromise or Funding Question.

The following interesting correspondence ad between prominent business men and Mayor Flippin, will attract public attention, now that attention has been turned toward the consideration of the city's indebtedness and her creditors, who seek to collect dollar for dollar by mandamus suits issued from the nited States and State courts: MEMPHIS, December 28, 1878.

Hon, John R. Filppin, Mayor, etc. DEAR SIR-Impelled by the interest which we as citizens and tax-payers have in the city of Memphis, we beg leave to address you the following inquiries, viz: First— What are the liabilities and assets of the city at the present time? AMUSEMENTS. Mary Anderson. To-morrow evening Mary Anderson and framatic company will commence an engagenent at the Theater in Evadne, or The Stat Of the role and Miss Anderson, the New York Times says: "With 'Evadne' Miss Anderson is in full sympathy. The character is one that calls for ingenuousness, simplicity, ten-derness, heroism—and a degree of passion. It is a character cut out of marble, and vivified, spiritualized with a soul. Miss Ander son suggested this conception, and she was eargest in her efforts to realize it. She made the most of her opportunities. At frequent intervals during the play she rose to a high degree of power; her large gestures, sweep ing movements, and resonant voice came into excellent play. In the second act, where 'Evadne' recoils before 'Vicentio's' accusation, her indignation was expressed with remarkable force. In the street scene, where chine.
